

These people attempted, and succeeded for a while in prohibiting cable people from providing local TV channels. They should face the music, no pun intended, xm radio is here to stay and the the NAB folks just can't compete.

We're paying for this service and happy to do so.

The hand writing is on the wall. Regular broadcast radio will be taking a back seat --- way way back.

There should be no restrictions on XM radio that are not enforced on regular, antiquated, ad-driven, terrestrial radio.
